1. Introduction

The 2020 Post-Enumeration Survey (PES) program evaluated coverage of the 2020 Census to aid in improving future censuses. The PES estimated the net coverage error and components of census coverage of housing units and people living in housing units. Group quarters and people residing in group quarters are out of scope. The final PES sample of the U.S. was roughly 161,000 housing units (Hill, 2022). Remote areas of Alaska were out of scope for the PES. Puerto Rico is out of scope for this memo.

Khubba et al. (2022) provided the 2020 components of census coverage, including estimates of correct enumerations, erroneous enumerations, and omissions for the national household population. Within that document, coverage component estimates for persons are provided for major demographic groups. Hill et al. (2022) provided the 2020 components of census coverage for states and Census Bureau operations.

For the demographic groups in Khubba et al. (2022), estimates of coverage were provided for

- Race and Hispanic Origin (Table 5)
- Tenure (Table 7)
- Age and Sex (Table 12)

Included in this document[1] are coverage estimates for the two-way and three-way cross-classifications of these categories. It should be noted that a respondent was allowed to select one or more races in the 2020 Census and in the PES. Thus, we report race as alone-or-in-combination (AOIC) with other races. This is consistent with how the breakdowns were handled in Khubba et al. (2022).

For all tables presented in this document:

1. Standard errors are shown to the right of the estimate.
2. An asterisk (*) denotes a percent net coverage error that is statistically significantly different from 0 at the 90 percent confidence level.

NR Not reported.

* Denotes a (percent) net coverage error that is statistically significantly different from 0.

[1] Dual-system estimate.

Note: A negative (positive) estimate of net coverage error indicates an undercount (overcount). A person can be included in multiple rows.

NR Not reported.

* Denotes a (percent) net coverage error that is statistically significantly different from 0.

[1] Dual-system estimate.

Note: A negative (positive) estimate of net coverage error indicates an undercount (overcount). A person can be included in multiple rows.
